Not illustrated. 1854 Excerpt: .of muteism generally, and has thus enlarged the boundaries of science, and conferred a benefit upon humanity. The total number of dumb only, without being either paralytic or idiotic, was 143: the dumb with paralysis numbered 48; the idiotic dumb amounted to 168; and those afflicted with both paralysis and idiocy to 74. Among the cases of persons dumb only, and not otherwise affected, is that of a boy in the city of Dublin, aged 10, whom I have often examined. He is neither deaf, paralytic, idiotic, nor deformed. He is intelligent, and understands what is said to him; but his manner is excited, and he has a peculiar anxious and restless look, and is rather irritable, and very intolerant of restraint. The organs of speech are well formed, as are also those of hearing, so far as can be observed; but he makes no attempt at articulation, or the pronunciation of words. When he wishes to attract attention he utters a loud, sharp, bark-like sound. An instance similar to the foregoing, in a boy seven years of age, has been thus reported on by Professor Doherty, of Galway: He is dumb, or very nearly so, but not deaf; on the contrary, he is very quick of hearing, has acute sight, and his understanding is by no means blunt. His head, though small, presents no peculiar deformity; and he protrudes his tongue to the usual extent. He understands what is said to him, will go of...
